Count Dracula's invited the cream of the creeps, including Frankenstein's monster, a werewolf or two, a coven of witches and wizards, and a spook of ghosts, ghouls, poltergeists and zombies, to his birthday. Because of a terrible mix-up at the post office, you have received an invitation. (A colony of vampire bats are now going to your best friend's roller-blading party.)

As you know nothing about mixing with the recently departed, the invisible and the just plain gross, let me help you out. I'll be your right-hand man (sadly that's all I am, just a right hand). I'll show you how to dress and cook in bad taste, how to turn your bedroom into a dreadroom, and how to make the most perfectly horrid present for Dracula. And, because I'm the ghost with the most, I'll show you some hair-raising tricks to play on your friends.

Don't be afraid, come join the party. The spooks will treat you well, I hope.

The Haunted House of Horror

Can't think of anything to buy for the Count? Well, how about making a witch's bedsit complete with leaping skeleton and, most disgusting of all, a washing line of witch's bloomers. Too revolting!

To make the haunted house

You will need:

- cardboard box 15 x 9 x 9 in (38 x 23 x 23 cm). Cut and shape front panel to make doors.
- craft knife
- craft glue and sticky tape
- 6-8 in (15-20 cm) fine string
- 2 split pins

Decorating tips:

- Use left-over wrapping paper to decorate the walls.
- Cut out photos from magazines to make portraits.
- Frame with card or lolly sticks.
- Paint a stone floor and wooden doors.
- Use back cover template for flying witch in window, or make stained glass using tissue paper.
- Tease cotton balls into cobwebs.
- Stick plastic critters in dark corners.

Psst!

Keep doors closed by inserting a split-pin (legs to the inside of the house) alongside the door. Open the legs to catch door.

Witch's washing line

Cut a door from a piece of stiff card and securely tape one edge to a wall. Tape one end of the string to the door, the other to the wall. If the string is visible with the door closed, shorten the string. Cut out the witch's laundry from wrapping paper and tape to the line.

Leaping skeleton!

- 1 Draw a cauldron and fire with tabs as shown above. Glue ends of the tabs to the wall. Draw and cut out skeleton.
- 2 In wall behind cauldron cut a 6 in (15 cm) slit starting 1 in (3 cm) up from the floor.
- 3 Push a split pin into skeleton. Pass pin legs through slit and open them slightly. To make the skeleton leap from the cauldron, slide the pin. Aaaaargh! That's hot!

Dressed to Shock

Whether you're dressing to thrill the locals or to impress Count Dracula, no self-respecting spook would be seen dead in anything but basic black. This 'rogue' fashion feature gives you the low-down know-how on dressing and making-up for a night on the howl.

Ms Bee Witched

When playing Ms Bee Witched, you must cackle, mutter curses, spit spells and stick your warty nose where it's not wanted.

How to do the make-up:

Using face paint, make your face and neck green (yes, green), and use a black face crayon or eyeliner to outline your lips and draw wrinkles. Make your eyelids white and your lips dark red.

To make the cloak, hat, long nails and pointed nose, see pages 18-19.

Vlad the Cad

Dressing up as a vampire is simple. All you need is a cloak, a handful of talons, a mouthful of fangs and a thirst for blood.

How to do the make-up:

Cover face and neck with white face paint or talcum powder. Paint your lips blood red. Circle your eyes first in black and then red. Make your eyebrows black and bushy. Slick your hair with gel.

To make the cloak and long nails, see pages 18-19.

The severed finger

Cut the sleeve and drawer of a match-box as shown. Line the drawer with cotton balls leaving the hole uncovered, and splatter the cotton balls with red paint.

Slip your finger into the hole, replace the sleeve and then scare your friends. Even scarier if you wriggle your 'severed' finger.

Desmodus

To create a truly batifying spectacle be light on your feet, flap your wings and squeak. When it comes to eating, Des likes his meat alive and moving. Yeuk!

How to do the make-up:

Paint face, neck, lips and ears black, leaving only flesh-tone circles around the eyes and on the tip of the nose. Vampire bats also need fangs!

To make the ears, cloak and chalk white claws, see pages 18-19.

Frankenstein's monster

This monster is really BIG so you've got to walk tall and walk ugly. Wear tattered clothes that are far too small and a nasty scowl. Pad out shoulders with folded newspaper and wear your meanest boots.

How to do the make-up:

Gel most hair back and whiten your face with face paint. Draw heavy lines and scars in black and red. Paint lips red. To make neck bolts and veined hands see pages 18-19.

How to Dress to Shock

Witch's nose

You will need:

- plasticine
- 1 sheet of newspaper torn into 1 in (2.5 cm) squares
- wallpaper paste or water-based glue
- craft knife
- paint
- thin elastic

Sculpt nose in plasticine. (Base of the nose should cover your own nose).

Cover the plasticine with 4 overlapping layers of lightly pasted newspaper. Allow to dry.

Cut the papier mâché nose in half. Remove plasticine. Join halves with pasted paper.

Batty ears

You will need:

- pink or red card
- black felt-tip pen
- plastic hair band to match hair shade
- stapler and tape

Draw a pair of ears and cut out. Snip along the dotted line, overlap the edges a little and staple. Tape ears facing forward on to the band.

For vampire nails and bat claws, follow the dotted line and cut out.

Nails, claws and withered hands

You will need:

- card to match your skin tone
- red or black felt-tip pens
- white paint (for bat claws)
- sticky tape
- make-up: dark eyeliner and eye shadow
- talcum powder

Trace this fake nail and band 10 times on to card. Paint the nails. Position a fake nail on your finger, fit the band around and secure with tape. Repeat for each finger.

To make hands look veiny and withered: draw veins with eyeliner pencil, brush dark eye shadow between knuckles, and sprinkle hands with talcum powder.

Cloak

You will need:

- large black garbage sack
- scissors
- sticky tape
- 1 yard (1m) black ribbon (red for vampire cloak)
- stapler
- stiff red card (for vampire cloak)

1. Cut garbage bag into a rectangle and make a 2 in (4 cm) hem. Secure with tape.

2. Thread ribbon through hem and gather the cloak. Fix gathers by stapling ribbon.

3. To make vampire's collar: cut red card as shown. Tape collar to cloak.

Monster's neck bolt!

You will need:

- 15 x 1 in (38 x 2.5 cm) band of card
- black felt-tip pen
- wine cork, cut in half
- corrugated board
- foil
- PVA glue
- sticky tape

Witch's hat

You will need:

- sheet of newspaper
- 2 sheets of black card
- sticky tape and glue
- long, thin strips of crêpe paper for hair

1. Draw fake scar and stitches on band. Cut 2 circular discs from corrugated board.

2. Glue a cork to middle of each disc. Cover all in foil except end of cork.

3. Place band round your neck. Position bare cork ends and glue onto band. When ready, tape ends of band together.

Discs to be slightly larger than diameter of cork.

Cut newspaper as shown to form a cone. Adjust for size, trace on to black card.

Cut out hat and snip card following dotted lines. Form cone and secure with tape.

Cut 2 rings. Open out flaps on the cone, and glue one ring to the upper side of flaps.

Glue crêpe hair to the underside of flaps. Glue remaining ring to bottom of hat.

To scare your friends or family, secretly make a tape recording of screams, howls, rattling chains, footsteps and hooting owls. Don't record all the sounds one after another — leave a couple of minutes between each one. Make some loud and others quiet. Hide your tape player so you can switch it on unnoticed.

Are You Game?

The ghosts and ghouls are restless. They're getting up to mischief, so entertain them with these ghastly games from beyond the grave.

Pass the coffin

You will need:

- a coffin-shaped box containing a prize
- 1 or 2 small prizes per guest
- lots of paper to wrap the package
- slips of paper and pen for noting forfeits
- music

It's a spooky version of 'Pass the Parcel' with forfeits. Prepare a parcel as you would for Pass the Parcel, but put a prize and a forfeit on a paper slip in every layer. When the music stops, a guest unwraps a layer of paper and they will be asked to do a forfeit (see Forfeit Ideas) before they can claim their horrible prize.

What's in the witch's larder?

The perfect way to whet (or ruin) your guests' appetites is to play this game. Conceal inside separate bags or containers items which feel like body parts. For example: a damp sponge for a tongue, peeled grapes for eyeballs, dried apricots for ears, cold spaghetti for entrails, cauliflower for a brain, peeled peach for a heart, twigs and sticks for bones. The bags are passed around for everyone to feel and to guess what's inside. Warning: not a game for the squeamish!

Trick or treat

Fill a clear container with large red peeled grapes and diluted blackcurrant cordial. Label the container 'Fresh eyeballs'. Guests who lose a game or refuse to do a forfeit must eat one of the eyeballs.

Forfeit ideas:

Tell a monstrously awful joke, make a seriously ugly face, reveal a deep dark secret about yourself, find words that rhyme with 'ghost' and 'ghoul', or sing a spooky song.

Ghost busters

You will need:

- 1 white balloon for each guest
- string

Inflate the balloons. Tie one to the ankle of each guest.

The aim of the game is to burst the balloons of the others by stamping on them. Ghost-busting continues until there is only one person left with an inflated balloon.

Witch's night out

You will need:

- bar of chocolate
- knife, fork and a plastic plate
- 1 dice
- witch's hat, plastic fingernails or oversized gloves, and a cloak

Everyone sits in a circle round the witch's outfit, knife, fork and plate of unwrapped chocolate. Each in turn tries to throw a 6 with a dice.

The first to do so dons the outfit and tries to cut off a chocolate square using the knife and fork. At the same time the others try and throw a 6.

As soon as someone does so, they take over the role of the witch. A fast game that quickly gets out of hand.

Living dead

You will need:

- white sheet
- cushion

Everyone leaves the room, except the host and one guest. The host lies on the floor, with a cushion over his feet. He is covered by the sheet. His shoes are placed above his head. One by one, each guest comes in to pay respects to the dead. When he kneels beside the supposed corpse's head, the corpse comes to life and surprises him with a whack on the back.

up a python and a pygmy?

with him.

up in themselves.
